Elks Have Big Day at the Fair

Yesterday was Elks day at the territorial fair and about 7,000 persons passed through the gates.

Harry Brownstetter came home last night and said that the crowded grand stand and the paddock presented an inspiring scene of color and beauty.

Elks were everywhere, and it was estimated that 2,000 Elks were present.

The grand parade of the Elks was one of the big features of the afternoon. The San Diego crowd of boosters, both men and women, marched with the Elks, and Mr. Brownstetter said the Yuma crowd was as big as that from Tucson.

In the parade four Yuma ladies marched with the Yuma Elks, among them being Mrs. Max Cieska, Mrs. C. H. Colman and Mrs. F. S. Ming.

Walter Ingalls carried the Yuma banner and Dr. R. R. Knott, the flag.

Most of the Yuma crowd will be home to-night.

George H. Clements Campaign Writer

George H. Clements, late of the Globe Democrat, has been engaged as editorial and campaign writer by the Republican territorial committee.

Mr. Clements is one of the best and most convincing writers in the west to-day and it is sure that the Republicans will get the worth of their money from Mr. Clements.

He is not only a strong and fearless writer, but understands the condition of things all over the new state, and as editor of the Democrat, has made a fight that was demoralizing to Democratic politicians, and one that will be remembered long after his departure from Globe.

Mr. Clements' headquarters will be in Phoenix.

Good Photographs

Frank S. Cundiff, of the U. S. R. S. made some good pictures of the big racing autos as they arrived in the Yuma control last Sunday.

His picture of the winning National and Harvey Herrick is about the best the Examiner has seen.

Hero of Road Race

Now that the road race is over, and while giving all credit for their performance, and giving Harvey Herrick, and the National, all credit that is due, there is one man that stands out as the real hero of the race and that man is Roger Stearns, of the Stoddard-Dayton.

Speeding over the road from San Diego to Yuma at a mile a minute clip, he found the Maxwell car overturned and Smith and his mechanic pinned underneath.

Mr. Stearns relinquished his chances of winning in order to play the good Samaritan, and in helping them out lost an hour which prevented him being first in El Centro and first in Yuma.

All hats off to Roger Stearns and his clean sportsmanship.

Hillside Burley

J. L. Lee, who hails from "Old Kaintuck" this morning received a shipment of real old hillside burley from his native state.

This afternoon he was kind enough to leave some of it at the Examiner office and the office boy smoked one pipe full of it and hasn't recovered yet.

Circus Coming

The Seattle Times says:

The first unusual feature noticed about Al. G. Barnes' Trained Animal Circus, which gave an exhibition in Seattle this afternoon and has another scheduled for this evening, is the fact that it is not overadvertised; that its management delivers more than it promises to deliver.

The great feature of this show is that in the main tent the entire performance is given by animals—many of the wild animals of the jungle at that. Lions drive horses, leopards perform wonderful stunts, monkeys do things they were never supposed to do and the elephants do everything but talk. The seals perform the most remarkable feats and seem to enjoy it—one even riding a horse at full speed round and round the ring.

The jungle beasts do not perform in the open ring as many suppose, but their work is done behind the bars of a circular cage, some thirty or forty feet in diameter that comprises the middle ring. They are rushed to and from the cages through a steel barred runway or chute, which guarantees perfect safety to the audience.

There are two open rings in which the domestic animals perform. High school horses, pretty Shetland ponies, dogs, monkeys, baboons and other animals do wonderful stunts.

In Yuma, Sunday, Nov. 19.

Times Cook Book

The Los Angeles Times Cook Book No. 4 will be ready for delivery to the Yuma public as soon as a shipment of the book can be received by the Yuma News Co.

This cook book is compiled by competition through the columns of the Sunday Times, prizes being awarded for the best recipes.

The retail price will be 35c, and the book is well bound and handsomely printed.

The mother and sister of W. M. Winn arrive in Yuma yesterday from Plainview, Texas, to spend the winter.

Southwestern Contractors Will Build A Bridge On Top of S. P. Bridge

Tucson, Nov. 7.—For use in constructing one of the most unique pieces of railroad engineering in the west in the shape of a bridge above a bridge, which latter bridge in turn spans a small river, the Ely Construction company has just purchased in Tucson a car load of 2x4x16 lumber to be used for making concrete forms.

This is the largest single order for lumber in straight pieces ever placed in Tucson, it is stated.

The lumber is to be unloaded at Vail, near where the bridge is to be built.

The El Paso and Southwestern contractors will construct a bridge 30 feet in the clear above the present Southern Pacific bridge, which in turn is between 35 and 40 feet above the waters of the Pantano-Cienega. This will be the point where the Southwestern crosses the Southern Pacific right of way.

California Oranges Late As Usual

With Yuma already shipping fine oranges and with Phoenix ready to go to shipping next week, the following from the Associated Press will furnish an interesting comparison as between the Arizona orange and the California product.

San Bernardino, November 7.—Because the artificial coloring of oranges is no longer permitted, by order of the bureau of food and drug inspection, eastern tables this Thanksgiving will be without oranges as far as Southern California is concerned.

According to prominent orange shippers this season's crop will be from two to four weeks late because of the order.

Heretofore, by use of this coloring device, the first of the crop usually reached New York and intermediary points in time for the country's annual feast day. This year it is expected the first car will be shipped early in December.

All Democratic

Telegraphic returns received by the Examiner this afternoon show:

McDonald, Democrat, elected governor of New Mexico, landslide.

McCreary, Democrat, elected governor of Kentucky, by 20,000.

Foss, Democrat, elected governor of Massachusetts.

Official returns, of course, are not available.

To New York by Burro

J. L. Lee, who recently returned from Agua Caliente, is responsible for the statement that Bob Anderson is preparing to drive a pair of burros from Arizona to New York where he intends to visit his daughter.

He expects to take about six months to make the trip.

Dr. H. Vance Clymer and W. H. Lyon returned this morning from a trip to Phoenix.

Graham County Maid Some Riata Twirler

Phoenix, Nov. 7.—No riata expert ever seen in Phoenix, whether in a wild west show or otherwise, is the equal of Miss Jane Barnudi, of Graham county, who appeared before the grand stand at the fair grounds yesterday and to-day and performed astounding feats with a rope. Miss Barnudi's engagement is for the entire week.

All the usual riata tricks are easy for Miss Barnudi. She keeps an enormous loop twirling in the air, jumps through it and performs many other spectacular feats. Many of them are of her own invention, and are wholly out of the ordinary.

One, in which she envelops the horse on which she sits with the whirling loop is particularly striking.

Hubbell is Chairman of State Committee

By a unanimous vote the Republican central committee at its meeting in the Club rooms of the Hotel Adams, last night, elected J. Durango Hubbell, well known man of Apache, chairman and the choice of secretary and treasurer was left entirely to him, subject of course, to ratification by the committee.

Hitchcock Denies

Rumor as been busy again with the name of Postmaster General Hitchcock.

As Mr. Hitchcock is considered a particularly eligible bachelor, and as his work in the department is supposed to have commended him to the captains of industry, it has been rumored that he was soon to resign from the department, and also that he was to marry and settle down.

The postmaster general has thought it wise to deny both rumors.

Swanson Walked

One of the amusing stories of the big auto race is being told in Phoenix.

It seems that somewhere between Yuma and Phoenix, Harvey Herrick was letting the big National loaf along slowly. Swede Swanson, his mechanic, either went to sleep or else he took a shot in the arm and rolled out of the machine.

Herrick saw him roll out, but instead of stopping the machine, he kept it running just ahead of Swanson, who trotted along behind for half a mile before Herrick would allow him back in the machine.

Asked what he thought of that kind of treatment, Swanson with a big grin remarked that Herrick was just a "plain fool," and not responsible for what he did.

How to Kill Rodents

A new discovery has been made in the use of carbon bisulphide for the killing of ground squirrels, desert rats, etc. By following the recommendation of the agricultural department of pouring the carbon bisulphide into the hole and plugging it up, not more than 40 per cent of the squirrels are killed.

By pouring the poison on a piece of horse manure and rolling the same down the hole, the carbon bisulphide is conveyed deep down in the hole and death to the rodent is the invariable result.

A. B. Ming left for the outside districts last night where he will have some heart to heart talks with the voters.
